HELP IN ACQUIRING KNOWLEDGE.—In acquiring a knowledge of the English Language, and especially in learning the meaning of words, probably no other work, nor many other books altogether, can afford so much aid as Webster's Unabridged Diction-ary, with its 2000 Pictorial Illustrations, its precise and full definitions, its careful discrimination of synonymous words, and its inany valuable tables. It is, in itself a whole library of the language. Let one faithfully, and another be without it—the difference in the progress of the two families in geting knowledge will be very great.

FATAL ACCIDENT

We regret to chronicle a sad and fatal accident, which occurred at the saw mill of Mr. L. Reid Watson, on last Monday evening about annest, resulting in the death of Mr. William Alexander, who had been employed only the morning before to assist in running the mill. Mr. Alexander was bearing off plank from the saw, when one accidentally struck it, which threw him in front of it, and before he was able to recover and rescue himself, had one of his legs cut off with the exception of a small piece of flesh, and the other badly broken. Medical aid was immediately summoned, and every ossible effort was made to save the unfortunate man's life, but all to no purpose, as he died that night about 1 o'clock, after the most intense suffering. Mr. A. hailed from Greenville, but his parents reside in Pickens County. He was about twenty-five years of age. His remains were interred in Concord graveyard on Tuesday afternoon.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION. The State Executive Committee of this organization, in presenting their annual report at the recent Convention in Sumter, gave an encouraging account of the work of visitation carried on by that Committee during the past year. Statistics show that for every $1.60 expended in the work, one soul was added to the Church of Christ. The Associations, as a result of this work. are giving more prominence to work for young men than has hitherto been the case. the young men in our large cities to-day are drifting away from the churches, and many a young man who leaves our country towns for the city is soon on the broad road o ruin. Wherever there is temptation thrown in the path of young men, there is need of a Young Men's Christian Association to band the youth together, to resist the evil influences which surround them. the Irdies of four communities in the State had raised for the Association in the cities and towns in which they reside the sum of of fifteen bundred dollars towards this work for young men. The mothers, sisters and wives are becoming interested in a work which ought to be dear to every heart, especially as it endeavors to reach those who are united to them by the ties of nature. At present, in this community, there is no place where young men can meet each other in a social way and spend a pleasant vening with each other. A nicely furnished room, fitted up in an attractive manner, in which the social part of man's nature can be appealed to as well as the spiritual, would help to elevate the character of our young men. It is to be hoped that the Anderson ladies will shortly take some action in this matter, and follow the audable example of their sisters in other ursuant to an invitation received from h: Greenville Guards of our neighboring 7, the Palmetto Rifles, of this place, Captain John E. Allen commanding, and numbering 26 men, rank and file, went over on Monday evering last. Before going they had a dress parade, and elicited the admiration of spectators by their near and soldierly appearance, and their profi-ciency in the intricate manual of Upton. At about 44 o'clock they formed on the public square opposite their armory, and marched to the Depot, carrying the colors formerly borne by the celebrated "Anderson Cadets," of ante-war fame. Boarding the train, nothing of interest transpired until Belton was reached, at which place the hungry appetites of the volunteer soldiery were appeased by Mr. McGee, who furn-ished an elegant supper.

Arriving at the Mountain City, they were met by the Greenville Guards, Capt. Norwood commanding, and escorted to their Armory, on Main street. After an address of welcome by Capt. Norwood, which was eloquently responded to by Capt. Allen, the spitalities of the Guards was served up and much enjoyed by the Palmetto Rifles. The State Board of Examiners, which instructed and in Columbia last week appointed Rev.

Norwood, of the Greenville Guards commanding, with Lieutenant W. W. Thompson, of the Butler Guards, acting as Adjutant. After marching through the principal streets, they wended their way to the picnic grounds, at the Coleman piace. Here was everything to please the fancy of the most fastidious in the way of wellladen tables, presided over by Greenville's fair daughters, and numberless games and other amusements on hand. The chief feature of the picnic was the target shooting, which was participated in by all the Companies. The music for the occasion was furnished by the Silver Cornet Band of Spartanburg. The distance for shooting was one hundred vards, and the prizes were a silver cup for the visiting Companies, and a silver badge for the resident Company. A member of the Butler Guards won the visiting Companies' prize, and Mr. Thomas Sloan, of the Greenville Guards, (formerly of this place,) won the prize for the best shot in the resident militia. At 41 o'clock an inspection was held by Gen. Gray and staff. The Battalion formed in a hollow square, and presented a military appearance, which must have been highly gratifying to the distinguished reviewing officers.

After the picnic, which was greatly enjoyed by all, the Battalion re-formed and marched back to the city, and had a dress parade in front of the Mansion House. Resting for a few hours, the delighted members of our gallant Palmettoes entered the dancing ball of the Mansion House, at tripped the light fantastic with the fair daughters of Greenville until the "wee sma' hours."

Our boys arrived at home (looking fresh and gay after their trip) at 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning. They were met at the depot by hundreds of friends, and as they entered the public square, on the way to their Armory, cheer after cheer went up from the many spectators who had assem-bled to witness their arrival. Much honor is due the gentlemen of the Greenville Guards for their kindness and courtesy towards the citizen soldiery of Anderson, and we trust that the time is not far distant when the military of our town will extend

Good Digestion.

"Give us this day our daily bread" and good medicine to digest it, is both regerent and human. The human stomach and liver are fruitful sources of life's comforts; or, disordered and diseased, they tingle misery along every nerve and through overy artery. The man or woman with good digestion see beauty as they walk, and overcome obstacles they meet in the routine of life, where the dyspeptic sees only gloom and stumbles and growls at even imaginary objects. The world still needs two or three new kinds of medicine before death can be perfectly abolished; but that many lives have been prolonged, and many sufferers from Liver disease, Dyspepsia and Headache, have been cured by Merrette Headache in twe-ty minutes, and there is no question but what it is the most wonderful discovery made in medical science. Those afflicted with Billousness and Liver Complaint should use Merrett's Hepatine. It can be had from Simpson, Reid & Co.

After a civic achievement unparalleled, and deliverance so complete that the most sanguine could not have expected, can we not afford to extend liberality? The government is ours, with all its influence and patronage, honestly and wisely adminis-tered. At its head stands a patriot, aided by able counsellors and subordinates. Any considerable opposition to the administration has long since ceased. Acquiescence is universal, obedience to law is cheerfully rendered throughout the length and breadth of the State, the whole gang of late conspirators in flight, in prisons, in disgrace, powerless, the Republican party astonshed, terror stricken, demoralized, disbanded, and without a leader-what more could we ask? what more desire? Can there, therefore, be any well-grounded apprehension, solverse to the continuance of present rule? Surely not, if dissensions and divisions are kept out the ranks of the dominant party. The danger lies here, and it is of the last importance that the wisest counsels and most consummate management should prevail. Differences of opinion as to method and policy at least should be tolerated, and the whole question exhaustively examined before a conclusion reached, and not a plan for conducting the campaign suddenly, prematurely promulgated, for let One of the most gratifying features of the it be remembered it was the prestige of a report alluded to, was the statement that great name, intense abhorrence of the most it be remembered it was the prestige of a corrupt, profligate, tyrannical government and the common and imminent danger unifying all the elements of opposition into one burning mass of enthusiasm and indignation resistless as an avalanche that brought victory to our standard. It could not, however, have been achieved-it was not achieved-by the unaided exertions of the orthodox Democracy. Many who stood aloof from clubs, and a respectable number of Republicans, came gallantly to the breach and contributed largely to success. Then, is it just, is it right, is it expedient to proscribe these and deny to them all participation in the selection of candidates for office? There can be but one answer-an emphatic No! Is the exigency so great as to require the lines to be drawn at such sharp angles? Self-preservation is the first law of nature; the right of revolution is inherent; the overthrow of a besotted despotism, like that from under which we have just passed, by actual force may be justified; but there can be no justification for the perpetration of a palpable wrong. Not only gratitude, but expediency, and even necessity, demand that we extend to these classes a proper consideration. The relative strength of parties (heretofore standing) is, say as 80 to 100. Now, if by any mathematical statement it can be dem-onstrated that 80 is equal to 100, then it will be admitted that the pure Democracy of the State can carry the election. This is an absurdity. How may the proposition and result be reversed? I answer, by subtracting twenty thousand from the majority of our opponents, and casting them up in our column. I indicate a plan: Let organization even be more thorough, let every club increase its membership, let no candidate he placed in nomination before the clubs except known and declared Democrats, (and members, if you please, of some Democratic club,) in the primary elections invite unaffiliated Democrats and well affected Republicans to cast their votes with us, and count no votes which may be cast for any who are not Democrats. In so doing we ask for an endorsement only, and allow the simple privilege of selection and election between candidates of our own party. This would be an act ex gratia and conciliation that would have a beneficial, a harmonizing in the walls of the club room. How could such a course pursued by the Democratic party tend to disorganization or diminishing efficiency? Why, it is preposterous to suppose that Democrats would nominate any but Democrats of known and established reputation. Then, away with solemn oaths, pledges and prescribed formularies. Are the rolls of the clubs lost, that you need swear them? Possess we no confidence in our members, that we cannot trust them? Look we for candidates to be dropped down from the moon or some other far off planet that we know nothing of their character or antecedents that we need require pledges of them? Trust we nothing to integrity? or hope we nothing from the as-cendant star of Democracy? Principles cannot be injected into the brain or their

I know not if there is sufficient toleration at the present in the public mind to permit an honest difference of opinion as to the policy to be pursued by the Democratic party in the approaching canvass, or that you may feel justified to publish any reflections or criticisms upon the attitude assumed by the party. I do desire, however, to enter my most solemn dissent from, and protest against, the programme recently enunciated and sent forth by the Central Executive Committee, for I see in it the seeds of dissension and the entering wedge (I much fear) to the speedy disintegration of the party. I look upon it as anti-Democratic, inexpedient and proscriptive. I cannot consci thously accept or support it. I would not enjoy a party triumph at the sacrifice of principle, or the violation of the spirit of liberty. I cannot countenance or contribute to a humiliation, and a party machinery that practically disfranchises a respectable minority of my fellow-citizens, (especially that class of Democrats unaffiliated with any club.) We have been fighting for the last ten years against party intolerance and tion, denouncing and repudiating the blind following of the Republican masses. Let us beware lest we imitate their example, raise up in our midst an oligarchy, and apply the party lash as they did.

cession in a large degree; but patriotism itself cannot ask the surrender of personal and individual liberty. Liberal statesmanship, a conciliatory course, a conservative policy, will confer on the whole country permanent peace, create confidence between the races, restore tranquility, and give what WM. D. You may buy a Machine, "so-called," for less money, but if you want to be satisfied after you purchase, always get the best. This Company sell more than all the rest put together, and there are about fifty different Machines on the market. The Singer was the first to reduce the price, and of course the minors had to follow, and they had to come a little below the Singer, or else they would have to abandon business, for I know from experience that parties say if you will take for the Singer what I can get another at, I will take the Singer all the time. What do they mean by that?
